MESSAGE FROM THE CHIEF JUDGE

The Royal Queensland Awards are an important part of the capital city wine show circuit. As the first show of the circuit, it offers an ideal opportunity to have your recently bottled wines assessed. For 149 years, events such as this have helped shape and elevate Australian winemaking, guiding producers to pursue excellence and refine their wine styles. Australian wine should always represent quality, diversity and a strong sense of place, and these are the qualities that the Royal Queensland Awards seek to recognise and encourage.

If we do not continue to strive for excellence in the current environment, we risk becoming irrelevant in a market that has no room for mediocrity or wines without identity. Wines that lack authenticity fail to resonate with both consumers and critics, which places even greater value on competitions that promote quality and integrity.

This is my second year as Chair of the Royal Queensland Awards. My experience last year in this significant role was deeply formative, and I look forward to the responsibilities and challenges that lie ahead. I am also very pleased to lead an exceptional and diverse group of judges whose experience spans winemaking, hospitality, retail, media and education. Their collective knowledge allows us to consider entries from a wide and informed perspective, ensuring that the finest wines are identified across every style.

With full awareness of the challenges facing our industry and the importance of encouraging participation from every region of Australia, I am pleased to note that there has been no increase to entry fees this year.

The Royal Queensland Awards are also partnering with several leading Queensland retailers to promote the results of the 2026 competition to local wine enthusiasts. This is an exciting initiative that ensures the wines recognised through such a thorough and rigorous process are celebrated and easily accessible.

I am genuinely excited for this year's Royal Queensland Awards. It is a competition defined by quality and passion, supported by people who are committed to strengthening the Australian wine landscape. I encourage you to take part, celebrate the achievements of our industry and submit your entries. May the finest wine win.

Julian Langworthy

MESSAGE FROM THE COMMITTEE

We welcomed 60 new wine exhibitors to the Royal Queensland Awards in 2026, a sign of renewed interest in what the Australian wine show movement offers Australian wineries.

This year at the RNA we celebrate the 150th anniversary of our first agricultural show in 1876. Australian show societies such as the RNA were founded to encourage excellence in the nation's agricultural industries. The next phase in the redevelopment of the Brisbane Showgrounds precinct will see us host the athletes' village of the Brisbane 2032 Olympic and Paralympic Games and leave the legacy of a much-improved arena for future shows and community events. These projects will underpin the sustainability of our charter for the next 150 years, including our ability to champion Australian wine through our Royal Queensland Awards.

Thank you to the many wonderful people who infuse our wine competition with their energies: our sponsors, our Wine Advisory Group members, our Chief Judge Julian Langworthy and his panel chairs, judges and associates, the RNA management, communications and competitions teams and our tireless volunteer stewards, many of whom take holidays from paid jobs to contribute to a cause they love.

Most important for the future of our competition are our exhibitors. Congratulations to this year's trophy, prize and medal winners. Thank you to all for bravely submitting your wines for peer assessment and, in doing so, for providing the subject matter of the thoughts and discussions that will drive this industry forward. That stimulus will prompt actions far beyond our four days of competition.

We are working hard to bolster the commercial opportunities our competition offers to exhibitors. In 2026, we have partnered with local retailer The Reserve Cellar to promote our results through curated offers of award-winning wines, including at our consumer tasting event, Grape Grazing by Night, at which we expect over 1000 wine loving guests. Penny Grant, a member of our Advisory Group, has already hosted 20 local sommeliers for judge training, exposing a selection of exhibitors' wines to local trade customers who now have greater familiarity with the rigorous process behind these results.

Please keep talking within wineries about what wine shows offer.

Ari McCamley

Chair, Royal Queensland Awards Committee
